

Why are sex robots which allow men to simulate rape a bad thing

hi there,

im sure you've seen the recent articles about the new 'sex robots' with frigid setting, but this one took my breath away.

If you're not already, please challenge the metro (a newspaper only barely better than the sun and such like) on this disgusting article that seems to twist the arguments against victim blaming in a new direction and sadly written by a female :(

I think this paragraph is the most concerning to me:

"It is very rarely the result of a man who has a rape fantasy becoming pathological about his desires and going into the world and selecting a woman to attack."

a complete lack of understanding of the cycle of perpetration, no evidence to back any of the thoughts and comments in the article, #fuming!!!!
